Policy for Religious Education

At Bridgewater we aim to offer the children a wide, enriching and varied experience of the curriculum for R.E. We explore religions through looking at festivals, themes, places of Worship, having visitors into school amongst others. To support our Curriculum, we follow the Salford Syllabus and the related Scheme of Work. The syllabus reinforces the importance of RE as an academic discipline. It enables understanding of concepts and the development of skills and attitudes so that our pupils can explore wider issues of religion and belief in religiously literate ways. The syllabus offers an inclusive education to all our young people, whatever their personal worldviews might be. It prepares the children and young people of our area for active citizenship in a diverse and rapidly changing world, exploring some aspects of British values in relation to religions and worldviews.

INTENT

At Bridgewater, we believe that it is vital for our pupils to learn from and about religion, so that they can understand and respect the world around them. It is our aim that Religious Education should help pupils to acquire and develop knowledge and understanding of Christianity and the other principal religions represented in Great Britain across the key stages, making appropriate links with other parts of the curriculum and its cross-curricular dimensions. Children should be taught to appreciate the way that religious beliefs shape life and conduct and develop the ability to make reasoned and informed judgements about religious and moral issue and given opportunities to learn that there are those who do not hold religious beliefs and have their own philosophical perspectives.

At Bridgewater, we aim to enhance children's spiritual, moral, social and cultural development by developing awareness of the fundamental questions of life raised by human experiences, and of how religious teachings can relate to them. We respond to such questions with reference to the teaching and practices of religions, and to their own understanding and experience and we give opportunities for pupils to develop positive attitudes and reflect on their own beliefs, values and experiences in the light of their study.

IMPLEMENTATION

At Bridgewater, R.E. planning is based on the Salford Syllabus. All religions are studied in a way that is coherent and promotes progression. Christianity is predominant during the Christian festivals of Christmas and Easter and is taught progressively throughout each year group. The following religions that are also taught are: Hinduism, Islam, Judaism and Sikhism.

We recognise that children come to school with a range of knowledge in religious education and we ensure that we provide suitable learning opportunities for all children by matching the challenge of the task to the ability of the child and by adapting our teaching approach.

At Bridgewater, we believe religious education can make a significant contribution to inclusion, particularly in its focus on promoting respect for all. The Salford syllabus affirms the role of religious education in challenging stereotypical views and appreciating, positively, differences in others. The scheme enables all pupils to consider the impact of people's beliefs on their own actions and lifestyle and highlights the importance of religions and beliefs and how religious education can develop pupils' self—esteem.

Religious Education is taught weekly for approximately one hour and when appropriate, links are made with religious links outside of school or visitors from different faiths.

Parents may exercise their right to withdraw their child through discussion with the head teacher.

IMPACT

At Bridgewater, we aim to develop the children's understanding of the world's religions. Through Religious Education, we are teaching our children to understand that different worldviews exist and to also make informed choices about their own worldview and develop confidence in their own beliefs. By equipping our children with the knowledge and understanding of differing beliefs and practices, we are teaching our children to show respect, acceptance and tolerance of others, not only in their own community but also in the wider world.

Our Religious Education Curriculum is high quality and is planned to demonstrate progression. We measure the impact of our curriculum by assessing the children at the end of every unit.

The Religious Education coordinator also monitors progression of individual pupils termly to ensure standards are being met.

It is the responsibility of the coordinator to monitor the standards of children's work and the quality of teaching in Religious Education. The coordinator is also responsible for supporting colleagues in their teaching, for being informed about current developments in the subject, for providing a strategic lead and direction for Religious Education in the school.

The coordinator gives the head teacher an annual summary report in which the strengths and weaknesses of religious education are evaluated and indicates areas for further development.

The Learning environment/Resources

Establishing a safe, open and positive learning environment based on trusting relationships between all members of the class, adults and children alike is vital. To enable this, it is important that respect for each other's views and beliefs and those of the believer of that religion is encouraged at all times and that any artefacts are handled with respect and care.

Collective Act of Worship

Bridgewater is a local authority primary school catering for children from 3—11 years. The children are from a predominantly Christian background. We do have a number of children following other faiths i.e. Islam.

All children are encouraged to attend assemblies, although parents may exercise their right to withdraw their child through discussion with the head teacher.

It is also recognised that members of staff may withdraw from leading assemblies or participating in acts of collective worship.

SEND Adaptations for RE:

Our curriculum for Religious Education acknowledges that learners with additional needs are likely to have difficulties making a generalisation associated with stimuli. These difficulties may act as barriers to learning with regard to making the connections necessary when studying R.E. The learner may need support to remember previous experiences and link them to make sense out of a new one. When teaching RE at Bridgewater planning is adapted to suit the needs of all children no matter what their needs with a focus on Quality First Teaching.

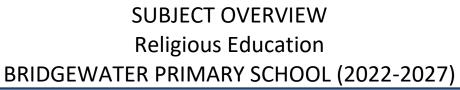

Teaching is personalised and targeted including tasks and questioning. We provide guided scaffolds to ensure all children are accessing the curriculum knowledge needed for their year group. Teaching uses visual and practical resources to help understanding of new content in R.E where physical artefacts are not available. Teachers also carefully consider adaptions – see below.

Cognition and Learn	ning
Barriers	Provision
Ability to demonstrate knowledge through written work.	 Allow alternatives to writing or enable writing using sentence starters, scaffolds, or speech to text software. Pre- teaching opportunities Recap of prior learning prior to the topic.
Retention of previous learning in RE as often a large gap between revisiting topics.	 Knowledge organisers outlining key prior knowledge Visual prompts Discussion prompts, regular revision of key themes, opportunities for overlearning and repetition.
Understanding of more abstract concepts/themes. Communication and	d Interactions
Barriers	Provision
Learning of subject specific vocabulary. Participation is subjects, which are predominantly discussion based.	 Topic specific vocabulary supported by artefacts, pictures etc. Practical learning assists with development of new vocabulary. Word mats, knowledge organisers, pre-teaching of vocabulary. Scaffolded sentence starters 'I think that' Additional thinking time after posing a question before returning. Emotions fans or cards. Supporting by reasoning aloud, 'I think that' Group / partner work with shared writing.
Physical and Sensor	γ
Barriers	Provision
Ability to read or to see text sources.	 Sources of information / text could be converted to electronic format so they can be read aloud using immersive reader or shown to the child in a larger print and/or on buff paper.
Sensory overload/unusual sensory stimuli.	 Consider how different sources could be used to Convey the information - physical resources such as prayer mats, bibles etc. may be of greater interest to the child than photos.

	Be aware of any sensory stimuli such as the use of incense or religious music, which will be unfamiliar to the children.
	 Ensure they are sitting away from any sensory stimuli or are provided with ear defenders etc. if part of normal practice.
	Advance preparation of any sensory stimuli.
	Consider pupil sensory audits and adaptations.
Social Emotional ar	l nd Mental Health
Barriers	Provision
Anxiety about visits to new	 Prepare the children in advance using social stories, pictures, and videos to enable them to know what to expect.
places with different expectations.	 Prepare the children with any routines/cultural expectations they may be asked to follow.
Difficulty	Social stories around accepting different beliefs and views.
discussing topics/concepts that they find	 Clear expectations that no one will be made to share if they are not comfortable.
uncomfortable.	 Emotions cards so that the child is able to communicate if they are uncomfortable with the discussion.
Social appropriateness	Sentence starters to aid productive discussion/avoid offence.
of discussing topics.	Bank of appropriate words to discuss topics if this is a concern.
topics.	 Promote the use of the worry monster if children don't feel able to verbally speak about the topic.
